The Difference between Living in the Divine Will and being dominated by the human will!

(The strength, fortitude, courage, and perseverance a soul receives by Living in the Divine Will is most important during these times!)

Jesus to Luisa:

"I thought about the difference which passes between who is dominated by the Will of God and who is dominated by the human will. While thinking so, before my mind I saw a person bent over, his forehead touching his knees, covered with a black veil, enveloped in a thick cloud which impeded him from seeing the light. Poor thing. He seemed intoxicated and staggering. He fell now to the right and then to the left, truly causing pity to behold. Now, while I saw this, my sweet Jesus moved in my interior saying to me: "My daughter, this is the image of one who lets herself be dominated by her own will. The human will curves the soul so much that she is constrained to always look at the ground; she knows this and loves it. This knowledge and this love form so many exhalations and form that dense and dark cloud that envelopes all and takes away the sight of Heaven and the beautiful light of eternal truths. Thus, the gift of human reason remains intoxicated by the things of the earth; and, therefore, its step is unstable, and it staggers to the right and to the left, and envelops itself in the thick darkness which surrounds it. Therefore, there is no greater misfortune to a soul than letting herself be dominated by her own will.

*Instead, all is to the contrary, for who lets herself be dominated by my Will. It makes the soul grow straight, in a manner that she does not bend towards the earth but looks always at Heaven. This looking always at Heaven forms so many exhalations of light which completely envelop her; and this cloud of light is so thick that, eclipsing all the things of the earth, it makes them all disappear and, in exchange, makes reappear all that which is of Heaven; such that it can be said that she knows Heaven and loves all that pertains to Heaven. My Will renders the step firm; therefore, there is no danger that she can stagger in the least. Her beautiful gift of healthy reason is so illuminated with the light that envelops her, that she passes from one truth to another. This light makes known to her divine mysteries, ineffable things, celestial joys. therefore, the greatest fortune of a soul is to let herself be dominated by my Will. She has supremacy over everything; she occupies the first place of honor in all Creation. She never shifts from the point where God has placed her. God finds her always on his paternal knees, repeating to Him, over and over, his Glory, his Love and his Eternal Will. And so, being upon the knees of the Celestial Father, the first Love is to her; the seas of graces that continually overflow from the Divine Bosom are hers; the first kisses, the most loving caresses are for her. Only for her is it given to confide our secrets because, being the nearest to Us, and the more that she is with Us, We make her part of all our things and We form her life, her joy and happiness; and she forms our joy and our happiness. Because of her will being one with Ours, and possessing our Will, our same happiness, it is no marvel that the soul, possessing Our Will, can give Us joys and happiness; and, so, we both make each other happy." Dear Heart!

May His Kingdom Come Soon!

Well, it is time for our September newsletter and I just mailed out August! I know it is because I was so late in writing and sending out the August newsletter, for which I am truly sorry, but it could not be avoided.

Soon after our arrival to Garabandal, we had a family of 5 from Texas visit us (three sisters, two with their husbands). But they also brought with them two wonderful Priests and two lady friends. One of the friends, works in Iraq, in Baghdad! She works for a sub-contractor. She told us that hearing the bombs in Baghdad was as common as hearing an ambulance siren in America...and the affects were about the same after a while. She works and lives in the protected, walled area of Baghdad. She also told of all the good that we are doing over there. Our men are building new schools, homes and upgrading many of the utilities. They are feeding the poor, clothing the naked and giving faith back to these people that life can be good again...if only!! Of course, you will never hear any of the good from the news media. She also said there are many who still thank us and who do not want us to leave. But the only ones you will see on the news are the dissenters. As God Wills!

This family was so amazing and so much fun. There is joy, peace and a love among them that is truly God given! They take everyone into their family, no one is excluded! What's wonderful is that you want so much to go and be in that family!! (smile) The husbands barbequed for us one night, while the wives cooked the vegetables, etc. It was such a treat and so very delicious! We really enjoyed each of them and felt very much a part of this family.

The Priests were cousins and Benedictines! They are beautiful, loving Priests. One of the Priest wanted to do nothing but talk about Luisa, and the other Priest was being introduced to her.

Sadie, a very good and dear friend of ours, was the other lady who accompanied them. We were thrilled to see Sadie again and she was so wonderful to have at the HOS. We had a delightful and very happy time with this extraordinary family! I do hope to see them again.

On the 27th of September, we had our first honeymooners arrive! We have Marc and Anne Weigel here on their honeymoon. Anne, formerly Anne Burns of Virginia Beach, is a close and dear friend of the Center for the Divine Will and the John Paul II Institute of Christian Spirituality. She is also a dear and personal friend of mine. We are meeting Marc for the first time, which has been wonderful. This most privileged couple was engaged on the birthday of Luisa Piccarreta, April 23rd and married on the Feast of St. Padre Pio, September 23rd. They then honored us by coming to the HOS for their honeymoon! We are so happy for these two beautiful souls who love the Divine Will so much. Their story is awesome and is like so many other stories of souls who put their lives totally in the hands of God's Holy Will! I know that God has some wonderful plans for them, one of which I hope is to teach couples how to meet and know for sure that the person they have chosen will be the right one for them. They could also teach how to live married life in the Divine Will. Living marriage with two human wills is a sad thing to watch, but if couples learn more how to live their married life with one will...God's Will, their marriage will be filled with peace and joy. This marriage has a beautiful future and these two will build many incredible memories of their life together in the Holy Will of God!

Now, I should like to continue my narration of our Germany trip. I left out from the August Newsletter some wonderful things that happened that I would like to tell you about now! The flu I had and my exhaustion did not help in trying to remember all that we experienced, which was incredible.

We spent two days at a beautiful Marian Shrine before we went to the Academy where we were to give our presentations on Luisa. We met several Priests, one from Poland, who was very interested in Luisa. We also got to know the villagers better and became good friends with several. One new friend, Dr. Adler, invited us to her home for cake and tea. She is a lovely lady who spends many hours in the Shrine praying for souls and for the whole world. Another very sweet friend, Christa, took us to see the village of Konnersreuth, where Theresa Neumann lived. What a suffering soul she was! We saw and purchased a DVD on her life. It actually shows her suffering the Passion which she suffered every Friday, especially during Lent! We also saw the bed clothes she wore during her sufferings....ALL the wounds are so very apparent, even the Scourging and the shoulder wound! She cried tears of blood that poured down her cheeks like rivers.

Then the next day another dear friend, Bernard, took us to the Cathedral of the 14 Holy Helpers! Magnificent! One of the most elaborate Cathedrals I have ever seen! I am not at all familiar with Germany and I was surprised to find many cathedrals in Germany in that elaborate Baroque style. They were simply awesome and beautiful! Bernard then took us to Bamberg. We very much enjoyed just walking around the city and visiting the beautiful Roman style Cathedral. They have a nail that nailed the foot of Jesus...I don't know if they consider it one of the nails, or the only nail. I have no idea if they nailed Jesus' Precious Feet with one or two nails, but they venerate this nail beautifully and very privately. I don't think most people going there even realize that it is there. They keep it in a room to the side of the Altar, where the Blessed Sacrament is kept. It was wonderful because we could venerate the nail and the Blessed Sacrament without any interruptions for about 30 minutes.

We then went and spent two weeks at the Academy with our dear friend who invited us to make presentations on Mary from Luisa's writings which she will give to the Holy Father, whom she knows well, in November. It was a very peaceful, but exciting time. After our time at the Academy we went with another beautiful friend, Fella, who lives just south of Munich in a lovely, quaint village near a beautiful lake. What an incredible stay that was. She gave us her car and told us to go....and we did. Felicia and I went to Salzburg, Austria which was only a 1½ hours away. We went to all the places that the "Sound of Music" was filmed. It was fun to watch that movie over again and recognize so many of the places in the scenes. Another day we went to see some of Germany's castles. The one that was the most beautiful and I believe is the most famous, is the castle from which Disney modeled Cinderella's castle. It is truly indescribable.

But the high-light of that day's outing was when, without thinking, I got on a ski lift that took Felicia and I up 1130 meters. You have to be very careful what you ask for when living in the Divine Will, because you usually receive exactly what you ask. Felicia and I were driving through some incredibly beautiful country side when we decided it was time to stop and have lunch. I wanted a restaurant on top of a hill or mountain so I could have a view! So I passed up several places until I saw one place that looked good. Felicia went to see if they were still serving lunch. She was told the restaurant was on top of the mountain that we were facing. There was a ski lift to take you up to the top. I jumped on only because Felicia wanted so badly to go and I thought to myself, "Oh, I can do this! No problem!" People were kite flying from the top of this mountain. I could not believe how high we went!! It didn't look half as far up as it really was! Well, it was very comical going up because I was petrified! The lift had nothing to put your feet on, and it felt as if you were suspended in mid-air. Then when seeing how high you were, the feeling was not pleasant at all...in fact, it was terrifying! But that was not the worst part...once you are up there, you have to come down! I think I was then ready to spend my entire bank account on a taxi or anything that would take me down anyway but the way I came up! I can't tell you how hard I prayed. Well, our Sweet Lord took over and calmed me down and helped me put all my trust in His Will and I came down on the ski lift. But I did promise Him after I came down that He would not have to worry about me ever asking for a mountain top restaurant again!! I didn't think I could ever be more petrified as I was when I was going up...until I came down....it was horrific! (laugh) I had to keep saying...."Your Will be done, Jesus, Your Will be done!" All the way down. (smile) But, I have to admit, the lunch was wonderful!!

Then the big day came when we went to Altotting to see the Holy Father! He is so wonderful and I am so pleased with this strong man of faith! It seems to me that our very Beloved and Great John Paul II was a mother in the Church, gathering all her children and trying to put all of them under her wings for safekeeping....and what a very loving and tender mother he was to the whole world. But it seems to me that God has now given us a father for the Church. A gentle, but stern, father who will now teach the children who have been gathered. Those who love the truth will listen and those who do not, will not. And it seems that if this is true, then eventually there will be a separation from within the Church. This seems already evident with Archbishop Malinger who is causing a separation within the Church by promoting married Priests in America. Our Holy Father was forced, after much pleading and warning, to excommunicate this man and all the Priests that he has ordained. What sorrow!! It would be very good if we all pray very much for Archbishop Malinger's soul!

Not only this, now there is the scandal of the two Priests that stole so much money from parishioners. Times are coming when the financial scandals of our Church will make the sex scandals look small. The reason I am saying these things is to make you aware, but mostly to tell you that you must always persevere....NEVER leave the Roman Catholic Church...no matter what happens. It is the only TRUE Church and Hell will not prevail against it. The people who make it appear bad or mismanaged or corrupted are only human beings giving into the very heavy influence of the world. They will be found out and corrected but they will not prevail....this is the Church of Jesus Christ, not of humans and He will bring it back glorified, in splendor! We must persevere no matter what happens. Remember, Our Lady of Guadalupe said that it would seem as if the Church will disappear, but it is only an illusion. Jesus will bring it back full of glory, with souls confirmed in holiness to run it! We must pray, pray, pray and sit tight and let God do His work! Also remember, we are not in control, God is...this is God's work to enable Him to bring back that time with His creatures for which He created us....a time when we will be totally united with and in Him with the Gift of Living in His Holy Will! It's coming....and it is just around the corner!

I am sure many of you remember when Pope Paul VI stated that "the smoke of Satan has found its way into the Church." That was back in the 60's! How much damage has this "smoke" done in our Church and to the people who listen to this "smoke?" We must stand by our Church, the Body of Christ, and never let any person run us away from it!

I have left my sorrow for the last. Before I left to go to Germany, my brother, Deacon Frank Earl Adams, 72, was admitted to the hospital with pneumonia in Mobile, Alabama. He had just recently moved there to help his wife, Judy take care of her aging mother. He and Judy lived most of their married life in Houston, Texas. After many ups and downs and a tremendous amount of prayers, it was God's Will to take him to Himself. My brother died on the Feast of the Holy Name of Mary, the 12th of September. He was a very good and faithful man and loved the Roman Catholic Church with all his heart. He touched many hearts to love as he loved. There were so many at the Memorial Mass in Houston that they had to get people to direct the traffic. Judy, a very dear and wonderful soul, has been very brave and courageous, as has the 5 children and the many grandchildren. He will be missed very much. Please keep him in your prayers, as well as his family.

United always in the Eternal and Infinite Love of our Heavenly Family!

Continuation of the Difference in Living in the Will of God and being dominated by the human will!

“And so, my poor mind continued to think about the difference that passes between one who is dominated by the Supreme Will and one who is dominated by the human will. And my greatest and only Good continued: "My daughter, my Will contains the creative power; and so, It creates in the soul the strength, the grace, the light and beauty itself with which It wants that Its things be done by the soul. Thus, the soul feels in herself a divine strength as if it were hers, a grace sufficient for the good which she must do or for a pain that she has to suffer, a light which, as connaturally, lets her see the good she does. And, attracted by the beauty of the divine work that she does, she rejoices and makes merry, because the works that fulfill my Will in the soul have the imprint of joy and of a perennial feast. This feast was begun in my Fiat, in Creation, which was interrupted by the rupture of the human will with that of God. And, as the soul lets the Supreme Will operate and dominate, so the feast retakes its course; and between the creature and Us are recovered the amusements, the games, the delights. In Us unhappiness does not exist, nor does sorrow. How could We give it to creatures? If they feel unhappy it is because they lack the Divine Will and enclose themselves in the little field of the human will. Therefore, as they return into the Supreme Will they find joys, happiness, power, strength, light, the beauty of their Creator, that making them as their own things, feel in themselves a divine substance, connatural, which goes so far as to give them joys and happiness in their sorrow. Therefore, between the soul and Us there is always festivity; we joke and delight together. On the other hand, in the human will, there is no creative power, which wanting to practice the virtues can create patience, humility, obedience, etc. Here is why boredom, fatigue are felt in practicing the virtues, because the divine force is lacking to sustain them, nor the creative power that feeds them and gives them life. Thus is seen inconstancy; and they easily pass from virtues to vices, from prayer to dissipation, from church to amusements, from patience to impatience. And all this mixture of good and evil produces unhappiness in the creature.

“On the other hand, who lets my Will reign in herself feels firmness in good, feels that all things bring her felicity, joy; much more so that all things created by Us have the imprint of the seed of the joy and the happiness of He who created them. They were created by Us so that they all would bring happiness to man. Each thing created has the mandate from Us that each would bring the happiness and the joy which they possess to the creature. In fact, what joy and happiness does not the light of the sun bear? What pleasure does not the sight of the blue sky bring; a flowered plant, a sea which murmurs? What pleasure does not a sweet and flavorful fruit bring to the palate; a most fresh water, and so many, many other things? All created things in their mute language say to man: we bring you the happiness, the joy of our Creator. But do you want to know in whom all created things find the echo of their joy and happiness? In whom they find my Will reigning and dominating, because that Will which reigns integral in them and which God Himself possesses is that which reigns in the soul. One, single thing is formed, and there overflow one into the other seas of joys, of happiness, and contentment; thus it is a true feast. Therefore, my daughter, each time that you fuse yourself in my Will and make your round for all created things to seal for Me your love, your glory, your adoration upon each thing that I created to make you happy, I feel renewed the joy, the happiness, the glory as in the act when We put forth all Creation. You can not understand the festivity that you make for Us in seeing your littleness which, wanting to embrace all our Will, reciprocates Us in love, in glory for all created things. Our joy is so much that We put everything aside to enjoy the feast that you give Us. Therefore, the living in the Supreme Will is the greatest thing for Us; and for the soul it is the same, with the Creator above the creature, Who, pouring Himself upon her, gives her his form and participates her in all the divine qualities in a manner that We feel our works, our joy, our happiness repeated by her.”
